Users can perform the following steps to print PDFs directly from Google Chrome:

1. When you click on the paperclip icon in the eCourts Case Jacket, the file is opened in a new Chrome tab in the Chrome PDF Viewer.

Also, note that the stamps used in Adobe Acrobat do not appear when the document is printed. To work around this issue, select Document and Stamps under Comments & Forms dropdown for the stamps to appear in your print copy. Once you select Document and Stamps, the next time you print, the PDF print dialog box is going to remember your selection and by default, it is going to show this value selected.
